

Carlos Bocanegra commentates the Champions League for English-language TV channels in Africa

Paris, 15 February 2010: On Tuesday 16 February, the journalist Robbie Thomson will be accompanied by a top-level consultant: Carlos Bocanegra, centre back for the Stade Rennais and captain of the US soccer team. He will be bringing his technical and tactical experience and contributing to the live English-language commentary during the AC Milan vs. Manchester United match.

Some twenty TV channels in the host continent to the upcoming 2010 FIFA World Cup have acquired the rights to broadcast matches, commentated and broadcast by the CFI satellite network, on each Champions League match day.

CFI takes great care to provide pertinent commentary for its audience of over 100 million football fans. Carlos Bocanegra's participation will be much appreciated as his homeland gears up for the 2010 FIFA World Cup in South Africa.

For the past twenty years, CFI has been the leading partner for African TV channels, meeting their expectations via cooperation initiatives and the transfer of expert knowledge.
